Brief:

1. Design a basic web page that searches Wikipedia for images using their API. More than one request to their API will also be acceptable.
2. Tile the resulting images neatly on your page to ensure your final product is suitable for an external audience.

This exercise should only take you a couple of hours to create. During your face to face interview you will be required to showcase your answer to the interviewer on a host device. Your laptop or JsFiddle/codepen would be preferable.
